

PRIVACY ACT STATEMENT

Authority: 44 U.S.C. Chapter 36; 47 U.S.C. 151 and 154.

Purpose: The Electronic Comment Filing System (ECFS) contains filings and comments made by the public in connection with FCC docket and rulemaking proceedings, as well as access filings regarding FCC proceedings maintaining, and disseminating information in connection with these activities. The Commission collects the name, home or business address and phone numbers, email address (optional), IP address and operating system, and any information contained in the comments, filings, or attachments. The Commission uses this information to inform its decision-making, implementation, and enforcement endeavors.

Routine Uses: The FCC may release information contained in ECFS to other individuals and entities when necessary and appropriate under 5 U.S.C. § 552a(b) of the Privacy Act, including: to the public via <https://www.fcc.gov/ecfs/>, unless confidentiality is requested; to comply with federal laws requiring disclosure of the information contained in our records; to comply with requests from Congress; and, to other federal agencies or to other administrative or adjudicative bodies before which the FCC is authorized to appear.

Disclosure: Your submission is voluntary. However, failure to provide information to the FCC, including your name, contact information, and/or other necessary PII, may preclude you from submitting a filing or comment on ECFS.
